

THE COACHES FELL THROUGH THE DRAW

CHICAGO SUBURBAN TRAIN IN THE RIVER.

Carlessness of Employees Makes Possible a Fearful Disaster Which Good Luck Averted—Many Passengers Receive Slight Injuries—The Lights Were Confused.

Chicago, June 18.—A derailed passenger coach leaning against the broken guards to the south approach of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway bridge at Kinzie street, a combination baggage and smoking car almost perpendicular, with one end resting on crushed abutments and the other end submerged, comprise all that remains out of the water of the Evanston suburban train No. 45, that left the union station at 9:50 o'clock last night.

Through confusion as to signal lights Engineer Cleveland approached too near the open draw and his engine and one car plunged into the river. Spectators of the accident declare that it seemed a miracle that the engineer and fireman, the conductor and thirty odd passengers of the train escaped with nothing more than slight injuries.

Among those rescued from the river or taken from the partially submerged car were:

E. GOSHON of North Edgewater, baggageman; injured internally and legs bruised.

FRANK WARNER, 1272 Sheffield avenue, clerk in general office of the road; slightly bruised.

GEORGE UPCHURCH, colored, Evanston; slightly bruised.

CHARLES HAWTHORNE, Evanston; injured internally.

JOHN CANNON, coal heaver, Market and Indiana streets; slightly bruised.

F. W. DUDLEY, agent for the road at Argyle Park; injured internally.

J. G. WHITE, agent for the road at Rogers Park; bruised.

FRANK CLEVELAND, engineer, Evanston; right knee cut and body bruised.

WILLIAM STEVENS, fireman; right arm badly cut, bruised about head.

GEORGE YAGER, conductor; dislocated ankle and scalp wound.

FRANK WARNER, clerk; chest bruised.

HOWARD TREPTOW, telegraph operator at Rogers Park; chest crushed; seriously injured; may die.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock the train stopped south of the Northwestern tracks about 100 feet away from the bridge. The flagman gave the signal and Engineer Frank Cleveland of Evanston started his engine. In the river a tug was whistling for the bridge to open. The engineer looked for the red danger signal, but, apparently seeing a white light flash from the bridge, opened the throttle of his engine, and the train rapidly approached the river.

Just back of the tender was a car, the forward end of which was partitioned off for baggage, the rear being used as a smoker. A dozen passengers, including one woman, were scattered through the smoking car, and the rear coach was well filled with people.

Suddenly a voice from the half-open bridge shouted a frantic warning; a man on the public bridge, near by, yelled: "The bridge is open," but the signals came too late, and the big engine plunged over the abutment, hung, with whirling forward wheels suspended for an instant, and then sunk into the waters below.

As the steam of the submerged locomotive cleared away the smoking car, still lighted, gradually sunk till the forward, or baggage, end was entirely under water, and the car was almost on end. By this time the men passengers had become somewhat accustomed to the situation, and began to scramble or climb, ladderwise, up the arms of the seats toward the top door. Some of them lifted the only woman in the car from hand to hand till she was seized by the hands of dozens of people who had rushed to the rescue of the imprisoned passengers.

While the occupants of the car were struggling out Conductor Yager, A. C. Murphy and others remained in the compartment to assist those appearing helpless. While the excitement was going on in the car that was the center of the accident the people in the coach still on the tracks became panic-stricken, and stampeded out of the doors and windows indiscriminately. After reaching the ground in safety they joined the crowd that had gathered around the wreck and assisted in the rescue. The car that remained on the track had been partially derailed, and its forward end projected nearly a foot over the water.

Views of the Paris Temps.

Paris, June 18.—The Temps, referring to the annexation of Hawaii by the United States, says: "We regard the annexation of Hawaii less as the result of a carefully considered plan than as an attempt to relegate to obscurity the dangerous thorny affairs of Cuba. This calculation is probably erroneous, because nothing will so contribute to strengthen aggressive pan-Americanism and whet the appetite for Cuba as this first taste at the expense of little Hawaii."

Say Everts Is Not Critically Ill.

New York, June 18.—Friends of William M. Everts contradicted the published report that he is critically ill.

THE EX-QUEEN VERY BITTER

Liliuokalani Says Hawaiians Do Not Want Annexation.

"Fifteen hundred people are giving away my country. The people of my country do not want to be annexed to the United States. Nor do the people of the United States want annexation. It is the work of 1,500 people, mostly Americans, who have settled in Hawaii. Of this number those who are not native born Americans are of American parentage.

EX-QUEEN LILIUOKALANI

"None of my people want the islands annexed. The population of the islands is 109,000. Of this number 40,000 are native Hawaiians. The rest are Americans, German, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese, English, and a small proportion from other countries.

"The 1,500 Americans who are responsible for what was done today are running the affairs of the island."

THEIR HOLD UP PLAN FAILS

Scheme of Illinois Train Robbers Nipped in the Bud.

St. Louis, June 18.—An attempt was made Wednesday to hold up a Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern passenger train near Salem, Ill., sixty-five miles east of here. The attempt failed through the weakening of one of the robbers, who informed the sheriff of the gang's plans.

With a posse the sheriff went to the scene of the hold-up before train time. He found the track piled high with timbers. At the appearance of the posse the gang scattered, and most of them escaped, though fired upon by the sheriff and his officers. One of the robbers was shot and captured, and he is now dying in jail at Salem, where he was taken.

Social Democracy of America.

Chicago, June 18.—As originally constituted, the American Railway union went out of existence last night, and with its doors thrown open to the accredited delegates of all reform bodies and trade unions, the delegates of the old railroad organization this morning began business under the title of the Social Democracy of America. This is the organization of which Mr. Debs has been writing and talking for the last six months or more, and it is the one which will become responsible for the co-operative commonwealth effort which it is proposed to undertake in some western state.

Views of German Editors.

Berlin, June 18.—The Vossische Zeitung thinks that the action of the United States imposes upon Germany and Great Britain the necessity of devising measures to prevent the adoption of a similar policy as to Samoa.

The Post, however, expresses the authoritative view held here when it says: "Germany has long regarded Hawaii as within the sphere of American interests, and can scarcely find any pretext either to question the right of the United States to annex or to interfere by protest or obstruction."

Stole Money to Pay Debts.

Boone, Iowa, June 18.—For the third time in its history Boone county has suffered a loss by defalcation of a county treasurer. Thursday Treasurer W. D. Moore resigned his position and turned over about $4,000 worth of property to his bondsmen. The supervisors say that he is short $10,000. Moore was badly in debt when he took the office, and it is alleged, has used county money from time to time to pay his private creditors. Boone county is amply protected by a bond for $100,000 with twenty-eight sureties.

THE GENERAL SYNOD FINISHES ITS WORK

LUTHERAN BODY CLOSSES ITS SESSION.

Meets Next at York, Pa.—Strong Protest Recorded—Norse Lutherans at St. Paul—Northern Illinois Synod at Chicago—Collector to be Hired—Meeting Ends Monday.

Mansfield, Ohio, June 18.—The Lutheran General Synod completed its work in the afternoon session Thursday, and formally adjourned in the evening.

Anniversary services of the deaconess board were held in the evening. Rev. C. U. Wenneck, president, presiding.

The afternoon session began with the adoption of a resolution that the synod correspond with the American Bible society and request that in countries where the Lutheran church is established, as in Germany and Sweden, this church shall have a voice in the distribution of Bibles.

Rev. M. S. Cressman of Lewisburg, Pa., offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Whereas, The general synod has protested against American denominations using money raised by them for foreign missions in the Lutheran lands of Europe, for the apparent purpose of winning Lutheran people from their allegiance to the Christian faith as confessed by the Lutheran church to personal connection with other denominations. Resolved, That we decline further exchange of delegates with the church body here presented.

Mr. Cressman explained that the church body referred to was the United Brethren.

The report of the committee on ecclesiastical correspondence showed that close fraternal relations exist between the general synod and nearly all other Christian denominations.

President Hamma appointed a committee from the general synod to join similar committees from the general council and the united synod of the south, constituting a board of arbitration, to which all matters of doctrinal discussion shall be referred.

By unanimous vote, York, Pa., was selected as the place of meeting for the next general synod.

TREATY MUST WAIT ITS REGULAR TURN

TARIFF BILL TO BE GIVEN PREFERENCE.

Possibility That the Senate Will Not Act on the Measure Before Next Winter—Southern Senators Outspoken in Their Opposition to It—Other Washington News.

Washington, June 18.—It is not probable that the Hawaiian treaty will be ratified at this session. Gray of Delaware, White of California, Chilton of Texas, and Caffery of Louisiana will oppose it by every means at their disposal, so that even a two-thirds vote, if pledged, could be delayed, and used to retard the progress of the tariff bill.

The Republicans will not therefore press the treaty. The committee on foreign relations will report it favorably, and it will be considered at one or two executive sessions. If the Democrats manifest a determination to delay it, the question will be allowed to go over until the regular session in December.

The President has no anxiety about it, and is satisfied to have it wait rather than allow it to be used to block the progress of the tariff bill. He feels that the country will approve of the treaty; that the treaty will stop all intrigues on the part of Japan, and that it will be ratified by the senate next winter.

Some of the opponents of the treaty are justifying their opposition on the ground that it is favorable to the sugar trust. So far as sugar is concerned, it is asserted, annexation makes no difference. Sugar from Hawaii is now admitted free under the commercial reciprocity treaty.

WILL NOT OBSTRUCT.

Rapid Disposal of the Tariff Bill Is Now a Certainty.

Washington, June 18.—Some of the Democratic members of the senate committee on finance have said that henceforth they would interpose no objection to the rapid disposal of the tariff bill. They will suggest amendments and ask votes on them for the purpose of making a record, but there will, if they can control the matter, be no long speeches on the schedules, with the possible exceptions of wool, hides, the reciprocity paragraph which the Republicans have promised to report and a few other sections. The indications now are that the Republicans will withdraw the internal revenue provision of the bill.

Good progress is made with that measure every day now, and conservative opinion points to its passage in the senate about July 5 and to its receiving the signature of the President and becoming a law about July 15.

Mr. Allison Thursday secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list.

Mr. Sulzer Denounces Weyler.

Washington, June 18.—The house was in session an hour and a half Thursday, most of the time being taken up with roll calls. Mr. Sulzer, of New York, succeeded in injecting into the proceedings a brief speech in favor of Cuba, in which he denounced Weyler as a "thief" and "murderer."

Must Pay Inspectors' Fees.

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—The XXXIXth general assembly passed a law providing that mine-operators should pay the fees of mine inspectors. The Chicago, Wilmington and Vermilion Coal company refused to pay such fees, and George A. Schilling brought suit in the Sangamon Circuit court to compel them to pay. The refusal was on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. The case was concluded Thursday and the law was sustained.

London Editors Are Worried.

DEATH OF FATHER KNEIPP

Originator of the Famous Water Cure Expires at Woerishofen.

Munich, June 18.—The Rev. Father Kneipp, known throughout the world for his water cure, who has been suffering for some time, died at Woerishofen.

Father Sebastian Kneipp was born in the Bavarian village of Ottebourn, about 75 years ago. He was the son of a weaver. He was educated at the Catholic hospital in Augustsburg, where he attracted the attention of the bishop of Augustsburg, who obtained permission to educate him to the priesthood.

FATHER KNEIPP.

When 16 years old he was attacked with nervous prostration and returned to the hospital. There, in an old book, he read an article on the efficacy of cold water as a cure for disease. He began experimenting in his own case and eventually effected a cure.

When 25 years of age he entered the priesthood and was sent to the church of his native town, where he remained nine years and, in addition to attending to his priestly duties, practiced the water cure and met with considerable success. By permission of his bishop he gave up his duties as a priest and with the assistance of three other priests devoted all his time to healing the sick.

No fixed charges were made and the voluntary contributions of those who had been benefited, paid for the construction of a sanitarium at Woerishofen in 1890, capable of accommodating about 600 children. In the following year a second and a third building were erected, large enough to accommodate 1,200 priests and sisters for the church. In 1894 accommodation for 300 lepers and 1,000 general patients was added.

Father Kneipp has treated many distinguished patients, including the emperor of Austria, the Archduke Joseph of Austria, the Archduke Augustin of Austria, several members of the Rothschild family and the pope. Last year, it is estimated, about 20,000 people were treated by Father Kneipp and his assistants.

A Good Ball Game.

The second ball game of the season took place Tuesday afternoon, between Cambridge and Milton. The home nine was made up of four members of the regular team and five volunteers. The regular battery was not on hand and Fuller and Bullis were at the points. Fuller has not been in the box since 1895, still he struck out 14 of the visitors and with good support would have won the game easily. Bullis is a felder, not a catcher, but put up a good game for a novice. At the end of the 7th inning the score was 5 to 3 in favor of Milton, but in the 8th and 9th Cambridge scored five times on rank errors and won out by a score of 8 to 5. Had the Milton nine been composed of the regular players the strangers would not have been "in it" for a minute.

FEEDS POTATOES TO HOGS.

John McCarthy Will Not Sell Tubers For 25 Cents.

Rather than sell his potatoes for less than 25 cents a bushel, John McCarthy, a well known farmer of the town of Bradford, is now feeding them to his hogs. Mr. McCarthy was in the city yesterday and said he has found it a far better investment to use the tubers for feeding purposes than to haul them to town and then receive but 20 cents a bushel. This spring he had 500 bushels stored away in his potato cellar.

A STRANGER DROWNS WHILE IN BATHING

ARTHUR P. SMITH, OF DES MOINES IS NO MORE.

Plunged Into the River at "The Bulkhead" and Immediately Sank From Sight—Remains Recovered Shortly Afterward—Was a Traveling Acrobat and Was in Search of Work.

Three hours after Arthur P. Smith came to Jamesville on a freight train last night, his dead body was resting on the muddy bottom of Rock river at Monterey.

Smith was drowned at "the bulkhead" at 8:30 o'clock, and the remains were recovered soon afterward.

Smith came to Jamesville on a freight train that reached this city at 6 o'clock last night. With him was Alvin Spence. Both were acrobats, and were in search of work. Smith came from Des Moines, Iowa, while Spence lived at Avon, Iowa. When the two men reached Chicago, they ran out of money, and being unable to find employment there, decided to go to Minnesota in hopes of getting work on a farm. Accordingly they boarded a C. & N. W. train to beat their way. On the train they met two other men, and all four came to Jamesville together, leaving the train at Monterey.

Took a Fatal Bath.

Spence remained at Monterey while the other three men went out in search of food. They were successful in getting something to eat, and returned to Monterey where they all ate together. Afterward Spence and one of the strangers went in bathing, and when they came out, Smith said he guessed he would go in too, and jumped into the river. An instant later he threw his arms above his head and sank from sight. When he did not reappear, Spence hastened to Kammer's meat market, and telephoned the authorities. Chief Hogan and Officer Appleby at once went to the scene, and the search for the body was begun. William Steed finally caught the remains with a rake, and with the assistance of John O'Donnell and Patrick McLeairs, got the body ashore, and later it was removed to Nelson's undertaking establishment.

Was a Good Swimmer.

Spence could not account for the sudden death of his partner. Smith, he said, was an expert swimmer. He could only account for his death by saying that Smith might have been overheated when he jumped in.

Smith was twenty-one years old last Tuesday. He had a step-father named Kelly at Des Moines while his own father, who is divorced from his mother is an engineer at Denver, Colorado. He has a brother and sister in Michigan.

A silver watch and some papers, but no money was found on his person. Chief Hogan telegraphed to Des Moines to see what disposition should be made of the remains.

Grocers Expect the State Agents to Call on Them Soon.

Local grocers are expecting a visit from the state vinegar inspectors. This board of "samplers" are now working in the vicinity of this city and just when they will commence work here is a matter of speculation. The law in regard to the sale of adulterated vinegar is being rigidly enforced in this state. A number of the merchants in surrounding cities have been fined for handling vinegar which failed to stand the test.

TIME-TABLE ADS WORTHLESS.

Business Men's Association Takes Steps to Stop the Waste.

A stranger representing himself as a railroad man came to Grand Rapids, Mich., recently, and taking up the idea of time-table advertising secured several hundred dollars from large business houses and then left town. The merchants of the town had been taken in so often on fake advertising schemes that this was the last straw, and the business men's association has formally decided to advertise hereafter only in the newspapers. It usually takes a series of experiences of this kind to teach the average business man the folly of indiscriminate advertising. For some occult reason he is apt to be impressed with the notion that an "ad." in a time table, on a map, on a theatre program, on the cover of an almanac, on the fly leaves of a school catalogue, or any one of a host of occasional and ephemeral publications is sure to be profitable, and it is some time before he is convinced that the reverse is the case. He discovers after a while that people do not read such things closely enough to heed the advertisement, that so much printed matter comes into nearly every household that it is a nuisance, and is cast aside with little more than a glance.

"With the newspaper advertisement it is different. A single issue of a daily or weekly paper is as ephemeral as a trade circular; but there is the difference in its brief life that while it lasts it is read. If the advertisements are not noted in that particular issue another comes next day and presently the reader is accustomed to seeing certain business announcements and half unconsciously he becomes familiar with the homes of merchants and the character of their wares. When the time comes that he wishes to know more he does not turn to the stray pamphlet, but to the newspaper, which is sure to be at hand and where he knows that he can find what he wants. Every merchant has the wish and the right to make the most of his advertising, and some can only learn by experience with fake schemes as the Grand Rapids brethren have done, that the newspaper is the best medium—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Matter of Interest to Travelers.

Tourists, emigrants and miners find the Hostetter's Stomach Bitters a medicinal safeguard against unhealthful influences, upon which they can implicitly rely, since it prevents the effects that an unhealthy climate, vitiated atmosphere, unaccustomed or unwholesome diet, bad water, or other conditions unfavorable to health, would otherwise produce. On long voyages, or journeys by land in latitudes adjacent to the equator, it is especially useful as a preventive of the febrile complaints and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which are apt to attack natives of the temperate zones sojourning or traveling in such regions and is an excellent protection against the influence of extreme cold, sudden changes of temperature, exposure to damp or extreme fatigue. It not only prevents intermittent and remittent fever, and other diseases of a malarial type, but eradicates them, a fact which has been notorious for years past in North and South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Australia and other countries.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1783—The British evacuated Philadelphia.

1812—Congress declared war against Great Britain. President Madison sent his war message to Congress June 1, and two days later the committee on foreign relations in the house of representatives reported a manifesto as a basis of the declaration of war for these reasons: The impressment of American seamen by the commanders of British ships of war, the British doctrine and system of blockade, the orders in council, and, lastly, various depredations committed by British subjects on the commerce of the United States. The house adopted the measure, then the senate, and on June 18 the president signed the act declaring war. This constitutional method of declaring war is still in force.

1815—Battle of Waterloo.

1860—The second or adjourned national Democratic convention met in Baltimore. This convention nominated Douglas for president.

1894—William Hart, N. A., a well known painter, died at Mount Vernon, N. Y.; born 1822.

HATES TO MISS A VICTIM.

A statement full of significance comes today in the market letter of a New York broker. He is reviewing the tendency of the stock market for the last week and makes this candid confession:

There is nothing the professional trader dislikes worse than to be beaten by a public market. He considers the public all lumps and that it is his special business to shear them at intervals. Some have to learn the fact that cohesion among scattered buyers when secured by an object lesson of sufficient importance is a distinct bar to the ordinary bear raid created by borrowing stocks and forcing stop order sales. Confirming what we said some weeks ago it looks as if there were a conjunction of good crops, good prices and revival of confidence and manufacturing. Some of the brighter lights among the professional bears are trimming their lamps to join the bull procession. They had better get ready quickly.

The outsiders who dabble in speculation can find a valuable pointer in the first part of this paragraph.

The political croaker should be enlightened by what follows.

Beating individual traders, and hoodwinking the country at large are the essentials of Wall street religion. This should be remembered when Wall street makes its periodical attack on congress and the president.

New York may have some new social swells as soon as the son and daughter of Joseph Richardson, the eccentric contractor, can finger the $10,000,000 each that has been left them by their father.

Mr. Bryan has been plainly told that Tammany did not want him to stick his fingers in the municipal campaign in greater New York. A roof garden engagement may be the best Mr. Bryan can get after all.

If Mr. Cleveland can't write history any better than he made it, he was wise in declining the temptation to become a historian that was dangled before his eyes by a wealthy syndicate of publishers.

Quite a number of prominent editors have written endorsements of the New York Herald's Mark Twain fund, but most of them forget to write their checks at the same time.

The new treaty for the annexation of Hawaii will be as popular as the one Mr. Cleveland withdrew from the senate in defiance of public opinion.

Some democratic senators find protection quite good enough for them and their states but they insist upon calling it by another name.

It begins to look as if Dr. Lyman Abbott and Col. Robert Ingersoll might yet stand upon the same Biblical platform.

Held to the Contract.

CHICAGO MARKETS BY WIRE

Robert Lindblom's Letter On the Condition of Crops and Trade.

Chicago, June 18.—(Special to Byrd & Law Commission Co.) If the amendment passes tomorrow then the wheat now in store will be regular for delivery for six months, but all wheat coming in after July first will be irregular, except in such houses as may be designated by the directors not to exceed twelve million capacity. In the improbable event of the elevators complying with the conditions of the new amendment then the present status quo will be maintained. So far as July wheat is concerned it will make no difference as we will have no receipts of wheat here in July.

The market has been without character. The trade is bearish at heart and seem to believe that the higher cables were manipulated for the purpose of selling here.

Corn did not respond to the cold weather as there was too much corn held in anticipation of unfavorable weather.

There is nothing to say about wheat except what we have repeated for several days in succession, namely that everything points to higher prices in every department and that the prospective yield of wheat is not excessive but is rather below the normal. Of course we pay no attention to such statements as emanate from milling organs with a title office up in a sky scraper increasing the government estimate to one hundred million, when as a matter of fact the government has made no estimate whatever and nobody else can make an estimate within fifty million even from the government figures, assuming them to be correct.

When You Get Ready.

When you have consulted everybody else and have been treated for every known and unknown disease; when you have filled your system with one-patent, ready-made, same-for-all, sure-cure preparations; when you have tried charms, spells, fakes, fads and fancies; if experience has taught you that Nature alone possesses the power to heal; that certain remedies assist Nature, but none of them cure; that it is better to work with Nature than to fight the disease; that the surest way to cure disease is to remove the cause of that disease, then we will gladly assist you with Rational remedies and methods which tend to build up and strengthen the entire system until Nature can assert herself and the Cause of disease is removed.

We treat the Patient, not the disease. This is one reason why we succeed where others have failed.

We have been in Janesville more than ten months and are here to stay. Consultation, opinion and advice free.

TO MOTHERS OF LARGE FAMILIES.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Free.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

Mrs. A. C. BUEHLER, 1123 North Albany avenue, near Humboldt Park, Chicago, Ill., says: "I am fifty-one years old and have had twelve children, and my youngest is eight years old. I have been suffering for some time with a terrible weakness; that bearing-down feeling was dreadful, and I could not walk any distance. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and they have cured me. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

ANOTHER ROMANCE ENDS IN COURTS

MRS. BLACKLEDGE SUES FOR A DIVORCE.

Former Janesville Girl Who Met Her Husband in France and Went to Japan to Marry Him Seeks a Separation—Says She is Neglected
For Scientific Labors.

Miss Kittie Treat, who left this city but a few years ago for far away
Japan, to marry a missionary, Dr.
James Blackledge, has now commenced proceedings for a divorce in the Oakland, California, courts.

Thus does another romance end in the usual manner.

The suit is brought on the ground of neglect and desertion. Mrs.
Blackledge is a former well known Janesville girl, who is today well known in the Bower City.

The romantic way in which she first met her husband, and their final marriage was for many days the leading topic of discussion among the local gossipers.

In 1882 a party from this city left New York City for a summer tour to the principal points of interest in Europe. One of those who formed this party was Miss Treat.

Met Her Husband in Paris.

Soon after making a landing in "the old country," the local party proceeded to the gray French capital, where they made preparations to stay several days. Another member of this party was Charles B. Conrad, the popular Main street grocer.

Mr. Conrad having made the acquaintance of Dr. Blackledge, introduced the doctor to Miss Treat while the party was in Paris. It was a pure case of love at first sight, and it is said, their engagement was announced then and there. Dr. Blackledge was then preparing himself for missionary work in Japan, so the agreement was that as soon as Miss Treat reached her Janesville home, she was to make known her engagement and proceed direct to Japan, where they were to be married. This part of the program Miss Treat carried out, and the day
she left her Janesville home for far off Japan for the purpose of marrying a man whom she met in Europe, is still remembered by numerous residents of this city, as Miss Treat was quite prominent here, and a frequent attendant at the Baptist church.

A Rift in the Lute

On her arrival in the land of the Jap she met the doctor and they were made man and wife without delay.
After many months of hard work in that country Dr. Blackledge and his bride returned to California where the doctor became pastor of a Methodist church, and was later on a teacher in Mt. Tamalpais Academy. Of late he has been teaching in Berkeley and was principal of the Peralta University Academy. Mrs. Blackledge now complains that her husband has been absorbed in studies and scientific pursuits, and has given his time to impractical and chimerical business schemes to the neglect of his family, which the plaintiff now claims has caused great injury to her health and the destruction of her comfort. Able attorneys are now conducting the case both for the defendant and plaintiff and it promises to be one of much interest.

THE CAMBRIDGE RAILROAD.

Trains Will Now Be Running Inside of Thirty Days.

At a special election held in the village of Cambridge last Friday, $6,000
of bonds were voted to aid the London-Cambridge railroad. The bonds are conditioned upon the reorganizing company building a depot and operating the road for at least three years, trains to commence running within thirty days. A new company has been formed for the completion of the Cambridge railroad, consisting of George Dow of Cambridge,
Robt Dow of Stoughton, George Dow, Jr., of Madison and Henry Harnan, of Milwaukee. The weeds have been cleared out and the old track repaired besides the new work done. If the company is encouraged it will extend the line to Fort Atkinson and Whitewater and will shortly put an engine on the track. Recently a final adjustment of the claims of the laborers on the road was made which proved satisfactory all around.

THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

W. P. Fleming.

W. P. Fleming died at his home, 215 North Main street, at 4 o'clock this morning, after a painful illness, aged forty-seven years. For some weeks past Mr. Fleming had been in poor health, being affected with lung trouble, and his death came as a relief.
For the past five years he had been employed by Thoroughgood & Company, and was a universal favorite among his fellow employees. Beside a widow and six children, he leaves a widowed mother, two brothers, and one sister, they being John Fleming of Chicago, Michael Fleming of Min-netoska, and Maggie Fleming of Whitewater. Mr. Fleming was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He had always made this city his home, and was well and favorably known. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

THE Y. M. C. A. CRISIS IS NOW AT HAND

MONEY MUST BE HAD TO PAY DEBTS.

Three Thousand Dollars is Necessary and an Effort Will be Made to Raise That Sum—Directors and Large Contributors Hold a Meeting to Talk Matters Over.

Financial difficulties confront the local Y. M. C. A. in a way that evidently means either the abandoning of the handsome building in this city or raising $3,000 in cash.

With these plain facts to deal with the public are to be asked for aid, and it is to be hoped that the financial shoals can be avoided.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors the matter was thoroughly discussed. The figures show that in the neighborhood of $18,000 in cash has been contributed for the Y. M.
C. A. in this city which has meant the purchase of the lot and the erection of the handsome building at the corner of Milwaukee and High street. It is now said that to put the association on a clear financial footing will mean the total outlay of $26,000.

Must Have $3,000 or Lose $5,500.

Eleven well known public spirited persons of this city have pledged themselves to give $500 each, as soon as a sufficient sum has been raised, that will—with their donation,—clear the association of debt. To accomplish this and thus receive their eleven donations will require about $3000, and it is this sum that the local board of directors are going to make an effort to raise. A committee now has the work in hand, and all who wish to lend a helping hand will be given an opportunity. There is one thing certain—the citizens of Janesville cannot afford to see the windows and doors boarded up in an institution that has done and can do as good a work as has been accomplished in this city.

Since Secretary Judin has taken hold of the work he has done all in his power to awaken interest but in spite of his efforts matters have lagged and the membership has not increased.

All Should Help.

Are the windows to be boarded up?

Let every person in the city who favors the cause of right and the work for good contribute their mite.

It would be a blot on the fair face of the city to let the Y. M. C. A. die.
It has been a powerful influence for good, and there is no use denying or disguising the fact that the crisis is at hand. Every little will help, so let all donate what they can.

"This money, it would appear,
must be raised, or else the building will have to close," said one of the eleven men whose contributions cannot be collected until all debts are paid. "A meeting has been held, and the matter discussed fully. I can see no other way out of it."

JUBILEE PICNIC ON TUESDAY.

Strong Speeches and Good Music at Mayflower Park.

Janesville will celebrate Queen Victor's diamond jubilee in zealous fashion next Tuesday. There will be a basket picnic at Mayflower park to which all British born subjects, their descendants and friends, are invited.
There will be a literary and musical program at 2 o'clock, to be followed by a dance and other amusements.
Boats will run every hour from 10 o'clock. The speakers will be John M. Whitehead, Mayor John Thorough-good, Rev. W. H. Thompson, Rev. H. W.
Thompson, Alex. Galbraith and Dr.
James Mills. Excellent music has also been provided.

EDGERTON HOTEL IS CLOSED.

Commercial House Is Turned Over to Its New Owners.

The Edgerton Hotel closed its doors and ceased to be a hotel last evening. No announcement could be made that would cause the people of Edgerton greater shame or regret than that this fine hotel property, built and sustained by a sacrifice of our citizens, should pass into other hands and be used for other purposes. Much as we regret to say it the disgrace will be a lasting one to our town."

LYNCH WAS NOT GUILTY.

Jury Acquits Him of Leaving Dead Horse
in the Street.

It took a jury one minute in the municipal court this morning to decide that Thomas E. Lynch was not guilty of violating the city ordinance in regard to the leaving of carcasses upon public highways. The jury was composed of C. B. Conrad, John R. Char-son, Albert Bailey, J. H. Watson, J.
Caldwell, and George Rentschler. Last Monday at noon while Lynch was driving his horse near the Seven Oaks dairy farm, the animal was taken suddenly ill and as soon as the harness was removed, died. His body was left in the road from noon till 5:30 o'clock. His arrest by Chief Hogan followed, but it was proven in court that Lynch had the carcass removed as soon as it was possible under the circumstances. J. J. Cunningham appeared for the defendant while City Attorney McElroy prosecuted.

The Time When Estates Taste Best.

eatables that touch the palate

any place in the city. A complete list

BIG CROP OF LEAF IS NOT CERTAIN

PRODUCTION MAY NOT BE MUCH INCREASED.

Weather Has Not Been Favorable
For Planting and Many Fields
Have Been Set to No Purpose—
The Market is Dull Beyond All Precedent These Days.

It is by no means certain that the contemplated big crop of tobacco will be grown this year in the west. Thus far the planting season has been decidedly unfavorable for this work. By the nature of things the present week ought to have seen the greater share of the crop in the fields. The soil was placed in condition and the plants of proper size and plenty enough for transplanting, but the weather has furnished about as unfavorable a time for this work as could well be produced. The soil was very dry, that which was recently stirred thoroughly dried out, and besides the extreme heat when thermometers stood at ninety degrees and above nearly every midday of the week, made the watering out of plants or machine trans-planting very precarious business.

These circumstances, however, did not prevent a good many growers from putting out their tobacco even though they saw them afterwards scorch and burn upon the fields. Plants were damaging on the beds, so it was taking the chance of losing them if they remained on the beds or being destroyed by the burning sun when transplanted. A good many acres of tobacco have been planted we imagine, that has been labor thrown away. Rain, and that too, within a very few days, followed by cooler weather is absolutely necessary to secure anything like a successful planting of the '97 crop, the Edgerton Reporter says.

The Reporter Market

The local markets for cured leaf continue dull without precedent, with movements so rare as to make them real novelties to the trade says the Edgerton Reporter. The sale of a 60 case lot by a local packer to an Ohio manufacturer is the single oasis coming to our notice.

The greater part of the week has been unfavorable for getting out with new crop. Intensely hot and dry with a sun that would burn up the plants about as fast as they were set. Local showers covered a good share of the tobacco section on Wednesday—in some places amounting to soaking rains, followed by cloudy weather, so that the delayed transplanting is now being pushed very rapidly. Under more favorable circumstances the bulk of the planting would have been finished this week. Some of the early setting has had a hard chance to make a live of it this week.

The shipments do not exceed 200 cases from this station to all points for the week. The export of cigar leaf from New York since last report, was more liberal, amounting to 138
cases.

FASHION NOTES.

Corsettes Closed at the Side—Some Trimmed Skirts.

It would be impossible to set down a descriptive list of all the variations seen in bodices, for the play of fancy is unlimited. Among the most conspicuous novelties, however, are bodies half of lace and half of other material, of which one part crosses over the other, the upper one being fastened by ribbons and shoulder knots. Many corsettes are closed at the side in a diversity of ways. Another novelty is the cuirass of lace, which rises in a point and forms a corselet, likewise descending in a point on the skirt, like a little tablier or end of a fichu. These two parts of the cuirass are separated by a belt of ribbon with a bow. The sleeves of the bodice are of lace.

Although plain skirts are still worn, there is a growing tendency toward trimming, especially for thin goods. All the lawns, dimities, cambrics and organdies are more or less adorned, fluffy decorations being preferred, as is the case also with thin silks of all kinds. Ruffles or plaitings of gauze or taffeta are much used, and accordion plaited skirts, especially of the "sun" variety, are having a decided vogue. They are sometimes plain, sometimes embroidered, sometimes adorned with flat bands of ribbon, velvet or guipure.

Ordinary skirts for walking are round, touching the ground evenly all around or escaping it by an equal distance. The back must be no longer than the front except in the case of a train, but trains are reserved for elegant ceremonial costumes, and are never now seen on the street. Today's illustration shows a summer wrap having short bolero fronts of red grosgrain silk, covered all over by an embroidery of soutache and steel beads. These fronts are arranged over a full accordion plaiting of black mousseline de soie. The capelike sleeves are also of accordion plaited mousseline de soie, as is the ruffle forming the back, which has a large plait in the middle fastened by a knot of black satin. The plaited medall collar is lined with white guipure, which also forms a jabot in front.

HINTS FOR THE WARDROBE.

About This Year's Shirt Waists—Belts of Many Kinds.

Hats for young girls are always round and are worn toward the front of the head. The trimming is comparatively simple. The coiffure for both young girls and young women is waved all over. The coil of hair is arranged higher than it has been this winter, and is placed almost on the top of the head.

Shirt waists are made of cambrics, dimities and ginghams having a much more mixed design than was popular last year. Several colors are often combined, and the effect has not the freshness and cleanness of the stripes and other open patterns favored last year. The newest sleeves are quite close, except at the top, where a sudden bouffancy is evident. They have a turn back cuff at the wrist. Silk shirt waists are among the novelties of the season, and are worn with linen collars and men's ties, just like the cotton ones.

As long as shirt waists are worn belts will, of course, likewise be worn. This year they are comparatively narrow, of leather or kid of various tints, of taffeta, velvet, satin, silk or spangles. Many more elaborate bodies are made to be worn with a belt, and in that case the latter is jeweled or covered with lace. It may be closed by a buckle, clasp or bow of ribbon. Sometimes it fastens at the back with long ends like a child's sash. This style is very pretty for plaited gowns of taffeta or muslin.

Although fluffy, much adorned costumes are the taste of the moment, a contrast is afforded by the class of tailor made gowns which are perfectly cut, but very simple and plain. Of covert cloth, serge or light cloth, they are eminently fashionable looking and yet serviceable.

An illustration is given of a traveling wrap of changeable silk. It is closed in front by tabs fastened by horn buttons. The fronts of the wrap form large revers extending from the neck to the foot. The polerine, lined with white satin, joins the revers at the top. The turned down collar, like the rest of the mantle, is ornamented with stitching. The cuffs and pocket flaps are adorned with small horn buttons. The hat of white straw is covered with puffed gauze and trimmed with pink flowers.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Generous Girl.

Maude—Charley stole a kiss from me last evening.

Aunt Kate—The villain! What did you do?

Maude—I was awfully angry with him at first; but when he said he stole it only that he might give it to a poor girl who never had any kisses, then I couldn't help seeing what a noble man he was. So I told him if he thought that poor girl was really destitute he might as well take another one for her.

Her Expressions.

"How perfectly awful!" was what she said when her hair would not stay curled, and when her new dress proved a shade too red.

"Twas the horriblest thing in the world." When the biscuits for breakfast were burned she said:

"How frightfully, dreadfully shocking!" She remarked when they told her her husband was dead:

"Dear me, now, that's quite too provoking."

Wholly Unassisted.

Mrs. Kidder—Now, darling, I hope you will relish these tea biscuits. I worked so hard over them, and made them entirely with my own hands.

Kidder—Yes; I can see that very plainly, dear.

Kidder—Because the yeast doesn't appear to have worked at all.—Up-to-Date.

Gus De Smith—Miss Nellie, how did you like my serenade last night?

Nellie Claffie—I didn't like your position.

Crimsonbeak—Did you hear about Benedict?

Yeast—No; what's the matter with him?

"Got caught in a bureau."

"A matrimonial bureau."—Yonkers Statesman.

He Was a Good Lawyer.

"Good lawyer?" repeated the man who had been acquitted in answer to a question. "Well, I should say so. Ever since I heard him plead my case I've had such a good opinion of myself that I keep looking round to see if the wings are sprouting. And before that I thought I was guilty."—Chicago Post.

Out of Date.

"That Fifth street church choir must be all run down and no good now."

"What has led you up to that opinion?"

Dinks—They all manufacture dreams.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

She—But I heard he executed his part splendidly.

He—He did; he killed it outright.—Fun.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering.

He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are today its warmest friends. For sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

"For three years we have never been without Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale at C. D. GIVES STRENGTH TO MEN

Free To All Who Are Weak And Worn

A METHOD TO CURE AND INCREASE THE POWER.

It is a remarkable fact that a man never appreciates the sufferings of others until he himself has passed through the fire of pain or remorse. Then it is that he looks around for those who are suffering, he wants them to profit by his experience; he gives his time and money gladly for the benefit of others and never tires of his zeal. There are plenty of men weak and worn out, struggling with remorse and fear, the natural outcome of habits that brought incapacity, a sense of loneliness and a feeling as if the best side of life had been banished forever. Such men should write to Thomas Slater, Box 404, Kalamazoo, Mich. He will send free by mail, in a plain, sealed envelope, full particulars about the method he used, and this will enable any man to get a complete cure at home. It is the method that Mr. Slater used to cure himself of the troubles that sap the strength and vigor and also enlarged his organs to natural size. The cure was complete, so satisfying and such a wonderful change from his former condition that he will gladly tell others all about it, sending all particulars. He figures that he doesn't know of a better way to show his appreciation of his own cure and sufferings of others. There must be generous men in this world to offset the tide of avarice. Write to Mr. Slater—it will cost nothing for his description and method.

CHAPTER XVI.
A GLOOMY GOODBYE.

At that point my importance ceased. Apparently seeing that the game was up, Mr. Cullen later in the morning asked Mr. Campbell to give him an interview, and when he was allowed to pass the sentry he came to the steps and suggested:

"Perhaps we can arrange a compromise between the Missouri Western and the Great Southern?"

"We can try," Mr. Cullen assented. "Come into my car." He made way for Mr. Campbell and was about to follow him when Madge took hold of her father's arm, and, making him stoop, whispered something to him.

"What kind of a place?" asked Mr. Cullen, laughing.

"A good one," his daughter replied.

Of the interview which took place inside 218 I can speak only at second hand, and the world knows about as well as I how the contest was compromised by the K. and A. being turned over to the Missouri Western, the territory in southern California being divided between the California Central and the Great Southern, and a traffic arrangement agreed upon, that satisfied the G. S. The next day a Missouri Western board for the K. and A. was elected without opposition, and they in turn elected Mr. Cullen president of the K. and A., so when my report of the holding up went in he had the pleasure of reading it. I closed it with a request for instructions, but I never received any, and that ended the matter. I turned over the letters to the special agent at Flaggstaff, and I suppose his report is slumbering in some pigeonhole in Washington, for I should have known of any attempt to bring the culprits to punishment. Mr. Cullen had taken a big risk, but came out of it with a great lot of money, for the Missouri Western bought all his holdings in the K. and A. and C. C. But the scare must have taught him a lesson, for ever since then he's been conservative and talks about the foolishness of investors who try to get more than 5 per cent or who think of anything but good railroad bonds.

As for myself, a month after these occurrences I was appointed superintendent of the Missouri Western, which by this deal had become one of the largest railroad systems in the world. It was a big step up for so young a man and was of course pure favoritism, due to Mr. Cullen's influence. I didn't stay in the position long, for within two years I was offered the presidency of the Chicago and St. Paul, and I think that was won on merit. Whether or not, I hold the position still and have made my road earn and pay dividends right through the panic.

All this is getting away ahead of events, however. The election delayed us so that we couldn't couple on to No. 4 that afternoon, and consequently we had to lie that night at Ash Forks. I made the officers my excuse for keeping away from the Cullens, as I wished to avoid Madge. I did my best to be good company to the bluecoats and had a first class dinner for them on my car, but I was in a pretty glum mood, which even champagne couldn't modify. Though all necessity of a guard ceased with the compromise, the cavalry remained till the next morning, and, after giving them a good breakfast, about 6 o'clock we shook hands, the bugle sounded, and off they rode. For the first time I understood how a fellow disappointed in love comes to enlist.

When I turned about to go into my car, I found Madge standing on the platform of 218 waving a handkerchief. I paid no attention to her and started up my steps.

"Mr. Gordon," she said—and when I looked at her I saw that she was flushing—"what is the matter?"

I suppose most fellows would have found some excuse, but for the life of me I couldn't. All I was able to say was:

"I would rather not say, Miss Cullen."

"How unfair you are!" she cried. "You—without the slightest reason—you suddenly go out of your way to fill treat, insult me, and yet will not tell me the cause."

That made me angry. "Cause?" I cried. "As if you didn't know of a cause. What you don't know is that I overheard your conversation with Lord Ralles night before last."

"My conversation with Lord Ralles?" exclaimed Madge in a bewildered way. "Yes," I said bitterly, "keep up the acting. The practice is good, even if it deceives no one."

"I don't understand a word you are saying," said she, getting angry in turn. "You speak as if I had done wrong, as if—I don't know what—and I have a right to know to what you allude."

"I don't see how I can be any clearer," I said. "I was under the station platform, hiding from the cowboys, while you and Lord Ralles were walking. I didn't want to be a listener, but I heard a good deal of what you said."

"But I didn't walk with Lord Ralles," she cried. "The only person I walked with was Captain Ackland."

That took me very much aback, for I had never questioned in my mind that it was Lord Ralles. Yet the moment she spoke I realized how much alike the two brothers' voices were and how easily the blurring of distance and planking might have misled me. For a moment I was speechless. Then I said:

"It makes no difference with whom you were. What you said was the essential part."

"But how could you for an instant suppose that I could say what I did to Lord Ralles?" she exclaimed.

"I naturally thought he would be the one to whom you would appeal concerning my 'insulting' conduct."

Madge looked at me for a moment as if transfixed. Then she laughed and cried:

"Oh, you idiot!"

While I still looked at her in equal amazement she went on: "I beg your pardon, but you are so ridiculous that I had to say it. Why, I wasn't talking about you, but about Lord Ralles."

"Lord Ralles?" I cried.

"Yes."

"I don't understand," I exclaimed.

"Why, Lord Ralles has been—has been—oh, he's threatened that if I wouldn't—that—"

"You mean he"—I began and then stopped, for I couldn't believe my ears.

"Oh," she burst out, "you probably despise me already, but if you knew how I scorn myself, Mr. Gordon, and what I have endured from that man you would only pity me."

"I want you to know how I feel." Light broke on me suddenly. "Do you mean, Miss Cullen," I cried hotly, "that he's been bad enough to force his attentions upon you by threats?"

"Yes. First he made me endure him because he was going to help us, and from the moment the robbery was done he has been threatening to tell. Oh, how I have suffered!"

Then I said a very silly thing. "Miss Cullen," I cried, "I'd give anything if I were only your brother." For the moment I really meant it.

"I haven't dared to tell any of them," she explained, "because I knew they would resent it and make Lord Ralles angry, and then he would tell and so ruin papa. It seemed such a little thing to bear for his sake; but, oh, it's been—I suppose you despise me."

"I never dreamed of despising you," I said. "I only thought, of course—No—that is—I mean—well—Oh, the beast!" I couldn't help exclaiming.

"Oh," said Madge, blushing, "you mustn't think—there was really—you happened to—usually I managed to keep with papa or my brothers or else run away, as I did when he interrupted my letter writing, but the night of the robbery I forgot, and on the trail his mule blocked the path. He never—there really wasn't—you saved me the only times he—he—that he was really rude, and I am so grateful for it, Mr. Gordon!"

I wasn't in a mood to enjoy even Miss Cullen's gratitude. Without stopping for words I dashed into 218, and, going straight to Albert Cullen, I shook him out of a sound sleep, and before he could well understand me I was alternately swearing at him and raging at Lord Ralles. Finally he got the truth through his head, and it was nuts to me, even in my rage, to see how his English drawl disappeared and how quick he could be when he really became excited. I left him hurrying into his clothes and went to my car, for I didn't dare to see the exodus of Lord Ralles through fear that I couldn't be helpful. Albert came into 97 in a few moments to say that the Englishmen were going to the hotel as soon as dressed, the captain having elected to stay by his brother.

"I wouldn't have believed it of Ralles. I feel jolly cut up, you know," he drawled.

I had been so enraged over Lord Ralles that I hadn't stopped to reckon in what position I stood myself toward Miss Cullen, but I didn't have to do much thinking to know that I had behaved about as badly as I could have done. And the worst was that she would not know that right through the whole I had never quite been able to think badly of her. I went into 218 and was lucky enough to find her alone in the dining room.

"Miss Cullen," I said, "I've been ungenuinely and suspicious, and I'm about as ashamed of myself as a man can be and not jump into the Grand canyon. I've not come here to ask your forgiveness, for I can't forgive myself, much less expect it of you. But I want you to know how I feel, and if there's any reparation, apology, anything, that you'd like I'll—"

Madge interrupted my speech there by holding out her hand.

"You don't suppose," she said, "that after what you have done for us I could be angry over what was merely a mistake?"

That's what I call a trump of a girl, worth loving for a lifetime.

Well, we coupled on to No. 4 that morning and started east, this time Mr. Cullen's car being the "tender." All on 218 were jubilant, as was natural, but I kept growing bluer and bluer. I dined on their car the night we were due in Albuquerque, and afterward Miss Cullen and I went out and sat on the back platform.

"I've had enough adventures to talk about for a year," Madge said as we chatted the whole thing over, "and you can no longer brag that the K. and A. have never had a robbery, even if you didn't lose anything."

"I have lost something," I said a little sadly.

Madge looked at me quickly, started to speak, hesitated and then said, "Oh, Mr. Gordon, if you only could know how badly I have felt about that and how I appreciate the sacrifice!"

I had only meant that I had lost my heart and, for that matter, probably my head, for it would have been ungenerous even to hint to Miss Cullen that I had made any sacrifice of conscience for her sake, and I would as soon have asked her to pay for it in money as have told her.

"You mustn't think"—I began.

"I have felt," she continued, "that your wish to serve us made you do something you never would have otherwise done, for—Well, you—any one can see how truthful and—and it has made me feel so badly that we—Oh, Mr. Gordon, no one has a right to do wrong in this world, for it brings such sadness and danger to innocent—And you have been so generous!"

I couldn't let this go on. "What I did," I told her, "was to fight fire with fire, and no one is responsible for it but myself."

"I should like to think that, but I can't," she said. "I know we all tried to do something dishonest, and, while you didn't do any real wrong, yet I don't think you would have acted as you did except for our sake. And I'm afraid you may some day regret!"

"I shan't," I cried, "and, so far from meaning that I had lost my self respect, I was alluding to quite another thing."

"Time?" she asked.

"No."

"What?"

"Something else you have stolen."

"I haven't," she denied.

"You have," I affirmed.

"You mean the novel," she asked, "because I sent it in to 97 tonight?"

"I don't mean the novel."

"I can't think of anything but those pieces of petrified wood, and those you gave me," she said demurely. "I am sure that whatever else I have of yours you have given me without even my asking, and if you want it back you've only got to say so."

"I suppose that would be the very best course," I groaned.

"I hate people who force a present on one," she continued, "and then, just as one begins to like it, want it back."

Before I could speak she said hurriedly, "How often do you come to Chicago?"

I took that to be a sort of command that I was to wait, and, though longing to have it settled then and there, I braced myself up and answered her question. Now I see what a duffer I was. Madge told me afterward that she asked only because she was so frightened and confused that she felt she must stop my speaking for a moment.

I did my best till I heard the whistle the locomotive gives as it runs into yard limits and then rose. "Goodbye, Miss Cullen," I said properly enough, and she responded, "Goodbye, Mr. Gordon," with equal propriety.

I held her hand, hating to let her go, and the first thing I knew I blurted out, "I wish I had the brass of Lord Ralles."

"I don't," she laughed, "because if you had I shouldn't be willing to let you!"

And what she was going to say and why she didn't say it is the concern of no one but Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gordon.

Capture a Pay Train.

Key West, Fla., June 18.—A train carrying $250,000 was blown up by dynamite by the insurgents near Jaruco, in Havana province. The money was intended to pay the Spanish soldiers in Matanzas province, but the insurgents captured the train and took all the money away with them. The loss is felt severely by the Spaniards, as the government is hard pressed for funds.

Tried to Burn Old Dynamite.

Decatur, Ill., June 18.—The explosion of 200 pounds of dynamite Thursday at the dumping grounds two miles from the city did considerable damage to many dwellings in the 3d ward. The dynamite had been condemned, and Joseph Foster, a city employee, thought he could burn it with safety. He and his men escaped injury.

Negroes Work in the Mills.

Columbus, S. C., June 18.—The action of the Charleston cotton mill in displacing 300 white operatives with blacks upon renewing operations a few days ago, has caused much suppressed excitement. The situation is regarded as grave and serious trouble is apprehended.
